Our Mission:

As leaders in corporate community service, the Bay Area Corporate Volunteer Council (BACVC), through collaboration with local nonprofits, seeks to maximize the positive impact of corporations in the community. To champion corporate involvement, the BACVC provides educational and networking opportunities for businesses and encourages all businesses to leverage their employees' passions, diverse perspectives and skills for the betterment of the community through volunteering.

BACVC membership can help you:

- Maximize your impact through strategic community involvement
- Stay ahead of trends in the field
- Network with your peers across industries
- Benchmark & evaluate your community involvement program
- Identify nonprofits that work well with corporate groups
- Enhance your image as an engaged community partner

The BACVC is a fee-based membership program.

Annual benefits include:

- Access to BACVC members-only website, bacvc.org, featuring resources, event listings and BACVC member contact information
- Networking and knowledge sharing with other Bay Area corporate volunteer professionals
- Five hours of consulting from The Volunteer Center
- A group referral list to a pool of nonprofits specifically trained to work with groups of employee volunteers
- Regular facilitated meetings on employee volunteer program best practices

Here's What BACVC's Diverse Members Have to Say:

“ My experience with the BACVC has been nothing short of phenomenal. The quality of the programming combined with the collective expertise in corporate volunteer trends makes the CVC events “must-attend” events in my mind. The Volunteer Center staff does an excellent job of keeping us organized and on-topic, and they secure terrific guest speakers to do deep dives into some of the most recent trends in corporate volunteerism. My colleagues do an excellent job of sharing some of their common frustrations, but always follow-up with recommended solutions. ”

*Carrie Varoquiers
President, McKesson Foundation
VP, Community Relations, McKesson Corporation*

“ As leader of a team responsible for developing and implementing a new company volunteer program, we have come to depend on the BACVC for quality programming and expert advice with a variety of our programs. The Volunteer Center staff is always available and does an excellent job of providing solutions to complex issues we face. We're on our way to having a first-rate Employee Volunteer Program thanks to The Volunteer Center staff and the BACVC. ”

*Stephan Phippen
Volunteer Program Supervisor
Pacific Gas and Electric Company*

“ The moment I became involved with community outreach on behalf of my company, I contacted the BACVC for mentoring, support and advice. Additionally, when anyone asks for advice about Corporate Volunteer activities, the BACVC is my first recommendation. The BACVC provides a wide range of expertise at the grassroots, local and national levels. The programming, outreach and collective wisdom of the participants and staff provide counsel for every aspect of community outreach and for every corporate volunteer coordinator – just entering the arena or veteran. ”

*Jo Licata
Community Projects Manager
Hilton San Francisco*

“ Membership with the BACVC is vital to my work organizing ASG's volunteer and community service programs. To be able to access best practices from other members has made my experience planning events much easier. Learning what has worked well and where there have been challenges saves me time and increases the success of our events. I would recommend the BACVC to anyone who organizes volunteer activities. ”
